A Little About Automotive Technology...

Automotive Technology has been developed for students with a strong desire to become quality auto service technicians or to work in an automotive related field. Because of the increasing number of automobiles in use today, and the high cost of new cars and trucks, the industry needs trained technicians who can use modern electronic diagnostic equipment to diagnose and repair vehicles. Shops, part suppliers, dealers, insurance claim departments, oil change, tire change...every aspect of the industry needs more new employees. There are a multitude of entry-level.

Certification

Students will have an opportunity to earn certification through ASE in Brakes, Suspension, and Steering, Engine Repair, Heating and Air Condition, Electrical/Electronic Systems, and Engine Performance. Testing site information can be found at www.ASE.com.

Articulated Credit

- Students who successfully complete the Automotive Technology program with a B average or above are eligible for up to 30 semester hours of credit at Ranken Technical College to be applied to an Associate of Science degree.
- Students who maintain a "C" (2.0 GPA) or higher average and high attendance, may apply for advanced placement at Ranken Technical College.
